The latest additions to the thousand-dollar-limit club, composed of men who buy the limit of stamps the government allows one person to buy, include the following: Phillips Cotton company, State Savings bank, Cohn & Ellett, cotton buyers; Albert & Son, Levi & Graft, J. With L. W. Hughes, chairman for West Tennessee; L. L. Boyer, director of sales; M. H. Welborn, director of state organization; and Bruce Hall, director of publicity, extension of the work already begun was outlined by the officials.

By the end of the week most of the business houses will have been visited in the downtown section of the city. Thorough canvases of the manufacturing districts and residence sections is being contemplated. Plans for women's activities are rapidly maturing and the co-operation of secret organizations is being elicited.

Dr. R. D. McDowell is directing the activities of the group. He is keeping the list of names of those who are keeping the limit of stamps and investing with the government before the people in the public places of amusement throughout the city.

BRINKLEY'S SLAYER NOT TO BE TRIED MONDAY

Lorenzo Young, negro desperado, who shot and killed Sgt. John G. Brinkley and wounded other officers who sought to capture him, will not be tried Monday.

Lawrence Monteverde, public defender, returned from Nashville Friday, where he went to investigate the negro's condition and to see if he could be brought to Memphis for trial Monday. He says Young is in bad physical condition and that his legs are bound in wood splints. The penitentiary physician says, will now put a plaster of paris mold around the wounded leg and it probably will take three weeks before the leg can be moved.

Mr. Monteverde said Friday that he would not have anticipated any trouble if the negro had been brought here for trial Monday. Young's case will be continued Monday when called for trial.

Mr. Monteverde stated that he conferred with the clerk of the supreme court in regard to the appeal case of Hamp Chilton, condemned to die in the electric chair in August for the murder of Isaac Levy, South Main street jeweler, and got a promise that the case would be set up for hearing in September and not go over until the April term of the court. If the appeal is rejected it means that Chilton will not be electrocuted in August, but at a later date.
